The Amangiri Experience

Hundreds of miles of untouched landscape surrounds Amangiri which lies at the gateway to the public lands of the Colorado Plateau. With experiences ranging from leisurely to active, Amangiri's activities encourage guests to discover the region at their own pace.

Long-standing relationships with local experts allow Amangiri to arrange tailor-made itineraries – a bespoke approach that guarantees a creative, adventurous experience. All activities are family friendly unless otherwise defined by age, height or weight restrictions.

Discovering an Ancient Landscape

Respecting the backcountry of Amangiri

Traveling with care

Amangiri is fortunate to call the Colorado Plateau home. However, with this honour comes responsibility. To experience the landscape in its unaltered, pristine state, please travel quietly and lightly on the land.

Cultural artifacts are safeguarded by the Archaeological Resources Protection Act. It is illegal to disturb archaeological or historic sites or to remove any artefacts found on public lands. Enjoy and learn from these sites while respecting these national treasures. These are sacred to Native Americans or are important cultural reminders of pioneer heritage.

It is illegal to carve into any of the rocks on or off Amangiri's property.

Natural objects of beauty or interest such as antlers, petrified wood and coloured rocks, are part of the backcountry and should be left for others to experience.

Advanced reservations for experiences are encouraged. To find out more or to create a custom itinerary, please contact the Amangiri Experience Team who will be delighted to assist.

Quick movements and loud noises are stressful to animals. Please travel quietly and do not touch, get close to, pursue, feed or force animals to flee.

Amangiri thanks you in advance for joining our effort to protect this fragile environment.

Don't Bust the Crust

The darker-hued, textured soil that can be found throughout Amangiri's grounds is composed of living organisms that are a vital part of the region's ecosystem. They are instrumental in reducing erosion, as well as increasing water retention and soil fertility. We encourage you to keep to maintained trails and walk in your guide's footsteps to protect these fragile soils that take decades to recover.

Amangiri Trail System

Amangiri's property encompasses 920 acres (364 hectares) on the Colorado Plateau and features more than 12 miles of designated trails. Trails are waymarked by signs, posts and rock cairns. They vary in length and difficulty and offer beautiful views of the property as well as surrounding archaeological, geological and natural findings. Note that the Cave Trail, which circumnavigates the Broken Arrow Cave, is open to guests, however a guide is required to enter the cave, due to it being a federally protected archaeological site. Trail Maps are available from the Front Desk and in your Suite.

Navajo Nation Slot Canyons

Geological marvels of the Southwest

Three Slot Canyon Tour

Led by a Navajo guide, this 1.8-mile (2.9-kilometre) easy walk explores three distinct canyons of the Southwest: Upper Antelope Canyon, Rattlesnake Canyon and Owl Canyon. Your knowledgeable local guide will escort you on a scenic 40-minute drive from the resort to the entrance of each narrow canyon on this three-hour experience. Guests are invited to discover the smooth, sculpted canyon walls while gaining insight into the rich heritage of the Navajo Nation. As access is granted within a specific time window, punctual departure is essential. For those seeking a more private and alternative experience, Mountain Sheep Canyon may be arranged in place of Upper Antelope Canyon.

Horseshoe Bend Add On

Enhance your Three Slot Canyon Tour experience by adding a stop at scenic Horseshoe Bend. The 0.75-mile (1.2-kilometre) trail is well marked and easy to follow. Your reward for minimal effort is the incredible view of the 1,000-foot-deep (300-metre) gorge of the Colorado River. This addition will make the tour roughly four hours.

Via Ferrata Climbing Experience

An iconic and exhilarating climb

Via ferratas (iron roads) in Italian, were originally created during the First World War to aid troop movements in the Dolomite mountains, bordering Italy and Austria. Today, they endure as a series of cables and ladder rungs fixed to rock faces, enabling the ascent of steep mountain routes. Amangiri offers a number of fun and challenging via ferrata routes, led by expert guides on the property's sandstone mesas. Your guide will provide a helmet, harness and backpack for the experience. Participants must be ten years of age or older to take part in a via ferrata and six years or older to participate in the Canyon Crossing experience.

Hoodoo Via Ferrata

Beginning with a short hike to the starting point of the climb, you will ascend a minimally exposed route to the top of the mesa. Once you reach the top, there are two optional suspension bridges, one of which is 18-inches (45-centimetres) wide - spanning a 450-foot-high (137-metre) gorge. Rappel training (abseiling) can be added to the end of the Hoodoo route, extending the excursion by approximately one hour. The Hoodoo route is the most popular entry-level route for guests who have never experienced a via ferrata.

Labyrinth Via Ferrata

This tour starts with a 15-minute UTV ride to a remote corner of the property. With the option to ascend The Slide, a less challenging route, or The Golden Pillar, an intermediate route, climbers ascend the 300 foot (91-metre) Blue Pools Mesa, to be rewarded by a landscape of arches and ancestral pictographs, before descending back to the UTV.

Vertigo Via Ferrata

After a quick hike, climb a partially exposed route to reach the top of the mesa. Once at the summit, you may cross two suspension bridges: the first, a narrow 6-inch-wide (15-centimetre) bridge, and the second, a 450-foot-high (137-metre) bridge. This route provides an intermediate mental challenge and delivers the perfect amount of adrenaline, with commanding views in every direction. For thrill-seekers, rappel training (abseiling) can be included at the end of the Vertigo route, extending the excursion by approximately one hour.

Voodoo Via Ferrata

The Voodoo Via Ferrata is regarded as the most exposed and challenging route Amangiri has to offer. After about a 20-minute hike, you arrive at the starting point of this climb. Ascending a technical ridge of Entrada Sandstone, this route also leads to the two suspension bridges offered in the Hoodoo and Vertigo routes. Being too steep to descend, you will climb down either the Hoodoo or the Vertigo route. This route is perfect for those looking for an elevated adventure. Rappel training (abseiling) can be added to the end of the Voodoo route, extending the excursion by approximately one hour.

Studhorse Mesa Via Ferrata Loop

On the Studhorse Mesa Via Ferrata Loop, you will climb to the top of the Studhorse Mesa utilising the Red Line Ridge Via Ferrata and descend the Rincon Via Ferrata route. Once you reach the top, you have an option to hike to Skylight Arch, where you will enjoy panoramic views of Lake Powell, Navajo Mountain and the Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument. If you prefer to hike instead of climbing down, you will return to Amangiri via the Studhorse Trail, adding three miles of hiking to this experience.

Cave Peak Via Ferrata

The only route to feature the Cave Peak Stairway, the Cave Peak Via Ferrata, with an unmatched vertical ascent, is one of Amangiri's more challenging courses. After hiking to the starting point of this route, the climb begins up a partially exposed path to the top. Once the summit has been reached, there is the option of crossing the Cave Peak Stairway, a ladder that is about 200-feet (61-metres) long, featuring 120 steps that rises 400 feet (122-metres) above the ground. The Cave Peak route and Stairway offer intense exposure and mesmerizing views of the property and wilderness beyond.

Canyon Crossing Experience

This exhilarating experience has been designed to challenge and inspire families with a fun introduction to assisted rock climbing. Once harnessed, work your way across a number of unique, small climbs and bridges. This site also features a replica dinosaur dig, created using castings from real fossils, that reference a paleontology site at nearby Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument. All participants must be six years of age or older to participate.
