Activities & Excursions

China is a land that has fascinated outsiders for centuries. It boasts one of the world's oldest civilisations, and its capital, Beijing, is home to a number of UNESCO World Heritage Sites, including the five below.

The Summer Palace

Also known as Yihe Yuan or 'Gardens of Nurtured Harmony', the Summer Palace was built in 1750. This beautiful 290-hectare garden estate long served the Qing Dynasty as an imperial summer retreat, and today is considered one of China's most peaceful and photogenic sites. The resort shares a wall with the estate and offers easy access.

The Forbidden City

Located in the very heart of Beijing, the Forbidden City was completed in 1420. It served as home for 24 emperors, and as the ceremonial and political centre of Chinese government for almost five centuries. It covers over 720,000m<sup>2</sup> and consists of 980 surviving buildings with over 8,000 bays of rooms.

The Temple of Heaven

Also completed in 1420, the Temple of Heaven is a complex of graceful buildings once visited by the emperors of the Ming and Qing Dynasties for annual harvest ceremonies. It is regarded as a Taoist temple, although Chinese Heaven worship predates Taoism.

Hutongs

Beijing is renowned for its atmospheric hutongs, which give visitors a glimpse of what life in the city was like in days gone by. Narrow lanes formed by lines of siheyuan – traditional courtyard residences – they are clustered around the Forbidden City.

The Great Wall

Passing through spectacular scenery, the Great Wall grew to its vast length of 6,700km after the unification of China under Qin Shi Huangdi in 220 BC. The Wall stood for centuries, but was breached in the 1300s by the Mongols and in the 1600s by the Manchu. Today, sections have been restored.

Within Beijing are a number of other impressive historic sites including Tiananmen Square, Lama Temple and Fayuan Temple. Beijing is also a treasure trove of contemporary Chinese art. 798 Art Zone, a Soviet-designed former weapons factory, has been transformed into a centre for local modern art and fashion, offering travellers insight into the artistic landscape of China today.
