A serene retreat offering 31 freestanding Suites and six Villas, Amanusa is also close to Bali's shopping and nightlife areas.

Amanusa's open-air entrance hall is situated at the resort's highest point. Stone pathways and staircases descend to the library, meeting room, boutique and various dining venues, finally reaching the 30-metre swimming pool with its magnificent views of the Indian Ocean.

The resort's 31 thatched-roof suites enjoy a sensuous tropical setting and consummate privacy. Walkways connect the suites to guest facilities and offer easy access to the golf course and the Beach Club, a ten-minute drive away along the coast. All suites offer terraces and eight feature private swimming pools.

Each of the six Amanusa Villas is located on approximately 4,000 square metres of land with four or more bedrooms and a private swimming pool. Situated adjacent to the resort, they have easy access to all Amanusa's facilities, including the spa suite, two tennis courts and restaurants.

To one side of the swimming pool, atop a lofty stone plinth, is the Terrace, serving Thai, Indonesian and Vietnamese cuisines to a backdrop of ocean and golf club views. Set back from the pool and open only for dinner, the Italian Restaurant opens onto a romantic courtyard overlooking the water. More casual dining can be enjoyed beneath the bougainvillea terrace alongside the pool and at the Bar, located opposite the Terrace and enjoying the same sweeping views.

Informal dining is also available at Amanusa's Beach Club. Fringed by a coral reef, the white-sand beach includes nine private bales set back from the water's edge – perfect for sunrise breakfasts, private dinners and all-day lounging.

Renowned for its dining, nightlife, shopping and entertainment, the coastline of southern Bali offers myriad opportunities for exploration. This region, with Amanusa at its heart, offers an exciting opportunity to glimpse how the contemporary and the classic are intertwined on this legendary island.

Amanusa's colonnaded, open-air entrance hall is situated at the resort's highest point and lined with baskets of white tuberose. Framing the marble-floored foyer is a large teak sculpture illustrating scenes from the Ramayana, the epic Hindu poem. From the entrance hall, stone pathways and staircases descend to the library, meeting rooms, boutique and various dining venues, finally reaching the main 30-metre swimming pool with its magnificent views of the Indian Ocean.

Amanusa's 31 thatched-roof suites enjoy a sensuous tropical setting and consummate privacy. Walkways connect the suites to guest facilities and offer easy access to the golf course and the Beach Club, a 10-minute drive away along the coast. All suites feature a wooden four-poster bed draped in white mosquito netting, a sunken indoor bathtub, an outdoor shower and a garden courtyard with an alfresco dining area. Each suite also offers a terrace with a daybed and sun canopy for relaxing. Eight suites have private swimming pools, and Amanusa's Deluxe Suites enjoy views of the ocean or the golf course.

Set back from the pool and open only for dinner, the Italian Restaurant provides seating in an elegant room with high ceilings and leaded windows, as well as a romantic courtyard beneath flowering frangipani trees overlooking the pool. More casual dining can be enjoyed beneath the bougainvillea terrace alongside the pool and at the Bar, opposite the Terrace and enjoying the same sweeping views.

Informal dining is also available at Amanusa's Beach Club, situated on the beachfront of the Bali National Golf Club. The white-sand beach is fringed by a coral reef that provides a safe lagoon for swimming and seasonal water sports. Nine private bales are set back from the water's edge and provide atmospheric venues for sunrise breakfasts, private dinners and all-day lounging. For those who prefer a more active holiday, Amanusa guests enjoy a priority reservation system at the Bali National Golf Club.
