

AMANYANGYUN
养云安缦

A peaceful sanctuary on the outskirts of downtown Shanghai, Amanyangyun offers a glimpse of China's past in a magnificent natural setting. Amid a flourishing forest of camphor trees near a tranquil lake, 11 re-mastered Ming and Qing Dynasty houses have been carefully moved brick-by-brick from the legendary region of Fuzhou in Jiangxi Province to become an integral part of Aman's latest destination in China.

Activities & Excursions

CULTURAL IMMERSION

The spiritual heart of Amanyangyun is Nan Shufang. Named after the royal reading pavilion in the Forbidden City, this cultural complex has been created from one of the most architecturally impressive antique buildings that made the journey from Fuzhou. Enhanced with furniture crafted from the nanmu wood characteristic of Ming interiors, the pavilion is a modern-day recreation of the 'scholars' studios' of 17th-century China's literati. Nan Shufang is a space to learn, contemplate and practise traditional crafts such as calligraphy, music and painting. Across the courtyard, nine dedicated rooms have been created to host traditional tea and incense ceremonies.

CLASSES AT NAN SHUFANG

- Guqin (Chinese Zither)
- Calligraphy
- Painting
- Seal Engraving
- Tea Ceremony
- Incense Ceremony

CHILDREN'S DISCOVERY CENTRE

With the King Camphor Tree near the entrance, the Children's Discovery Centre at Amanyangyun is a popular meeting spot for younger guests. The Children's Discovery Centre welcomes guests at all ages in particular children aged from five to 12 and offers a variety of experiences to help younger guests discover China's rich culture and history.
