

Rosa Alpina

50 words

Through summer, autumn and winter seasons, Aman Rosa Alpina offers a contemporary take on classic Alpine elegance in San Cassiano, a charming village in Italy's UNESCO-protected Dolomites. Designed by Jean-Michel Gathy, the hotel combines 51 rooms and suites with an expansive Aman Spa and three distinctive dining venues, with the mountains as a dramatic backdrop.

80 words

In the charming village of San Cassiano in Italy's UNESCO-protected Dolomites, Aman Rosa Alpina offers a contemporary take on classic Alpine elegance. Reimagined by Jean-Michel Gathy, the hotel offers 51 rooms and suites, an expansive Aman Spa and three distinctive dining venues. In winter, guests have access to 1,200 kilometres of pistes across the Dolomiti Superski region, while in summer and autumn, hiking trails, cycling routes, climbing and other outdoor adventures showcase the mountain landscape in verdant bloom.

300 words

Set in the heart of San Cassiano, a charming mountain village in Italy's UNESCO-protected Dolomites, Aman Rosa Alpina offers a contemporary take on classic Alpine elegance. Designed by Jean-Michel Gathy of Denniston, the hotel combines the heritage of its setting with Aman's design language, creating a refined base for exploring the mountains through the summer, autumn and winter seasons.

The hotel's 51 rooms and suites are inspired by the raw beauty of the Dolomites, with natural materials, floor-to-ceiling windows, fireplaces and expansive balconies that allow the surrounding landscape to take centre stage. The two-bedroom Aman Suite is the largest, with its private outdoor terrace and dining for up to six guests. Meanwhile, connecting rooms and suites make the hotel well suited to families and groups.

Three dining venues offer distinct expressions of international, traditional Italian and contemporary Japanese cuisine. The Grill serves seasonal Mediterranean-inspired dishes and artisanal pizzas over a live grill, while Enju brings the ritual of Japanese shabu-shabu (hotpot) dining to the mountains. Elsewhere, Il Salotto serves as the hotel's beating heart – by day an all-day lounge and by night an atmospheric piano bar with regular live music.

For those seeking restoration, the expansive Aman Spa spans two floors, with seven treatment suites, a 20-metre heated outdoor infinity pool, an adults-only indoor pool, a family indoor pool, saunas, steam bath and cold plunge, alongside a gym and yoga studio. For time together away from the mountains, guests can also enjoy the cinema and billiard rooms, while families can make the most of the Playroom and Teen Lounge.

In winter, the hotel offers direct access to the Dolomiti Superski network, with 1,200 kilometres of slopes and 450 lifts while in summer and autumn, guided hikes, mountain biking, climbing, golf and sky running reveal another side of the dramatic mountain landscape.

500 words

Set in the heart of San Cassiano, a charming mountain village in Italy's UNESCO-protected Dolomites, Aman Rosa Alpina offers a contemporary take on classic Alpine elegance. Designed by Jean-Michel Gathy of Denniston, the hotel balances the heritage of its setting with Aman's celebrated design language, creating a refined base from which to experience the mountains through the summer, autumn and winter seasons.

The hotel's 51 rooms and suites are inspired by the raw beauty of the Dolomites, with natural wood and stone, floor-to-ceiling windows and expansive balconies that frame the surrounding landscape. Working fireplaces and separate living areas bring warmth indoors, while several rooms and suites can be connected, ideal for families and groups. The two-bedroom Aman Suite is the hotel's largest and features its own south-facing terrace, panoramic windows, a central fireplace and dining area for six.

Three dining venues offer distinct expressions of international, traditional Italian and contemporary Japanese cuisine. The Grill brings seasonal dishes and artisanal pizzas to a live-fire setting, with a summer terrace overlooking San Cassiano while Enju offers a refined Japanese shabu-shabu (hotpot) experience, pairing premium cuts and seasonal vegetables with fine sake and rare teas. Il Salotto, the hotel's beating heart, serves refined drinks, organic tea infusions and an all-day menu of light bites before transforming into an atmospheric piano bar in the evening with regular live music. An intimate private dining venue and space for wine tastings and experiences, the Divino Room offers a rare setting, surrounded by a vast collection of Italian vintages.

Wellness is central to the Aman Rosa Alpina experience. Spread across two floors, the 1,684-square-metre Aman Spa includes seven treatment suites, an adults-only indoor pool, a family indoor pool, Finnish sauna, Bio sauna, steam bath and cold plunge. Outside, a 20-metre heated infinity pool and Jacuzzi overlook the forest while a fully equipped gym, yoga studio, Hair & Nail Salon and dedicated padel court complete the offering.

A 90-minute drive from Bolzano Airport, two hours from Innsbruck Airport and two and a half hours from Venice Marco Polo Airport, in winter, guests have access to the Dolomiti Superski network, with 1,200 kilometres of slopes and 450 lifts covered by one ski pass. A Ski Butler arranges equipment fitting before arrival, while the hotel shuttle runs throughout the day to the nearby Piz Sorega lift. Beyond skiing and snowboarding, cross-country skiing, winter hiking, snowshoeing, mountaineering, ice climbing and tobogganing offer different ways to explore the mountains.

Meanwhile, from June to October, walks and hikes begin directly from the hotel, while mountain biking, cycling, climbing, via ferrata, golf and trail and sky running reveal the Dolomites from a new perspective. For time together away from the mountains, guests can also enjoy the cinema and billiard rooms, while families can make the most of the Playroom and Teen Lounge.